The extended resistance survey succeeded in identifying the eastern end of a large building that on excavation proved to be the lost church associated with the monastic remains. A number of later garden features were identified while a central pier was found at the east end of the church. The definition provided by the GPR correlated extremely well with the excavated culvert. [Au(abr)]

SITE OF THE DIANA, PRINCESS OF WALES, MEMORIAL FOUNTAINThe Site of the Diana, Princess of Wales Memorial Fountain, Hyde Park, London. Report on Geophysical Surveys, May 2003

Martin, L Portsmouth : English Heritage, 2003, 14pp, figs, tabs, refs

An archaeological evaluation of the proposed site of the Princess of Diana Memorial Fountain, Hyde Park, London, revealed evidence of Roman settlement activity. Subsequent geophysical survey was conducted on land to the south and east of this in a bid to trace any associated building remains. Unfortunately, considerable modern interference and activity at the site has meant there was little geophysical evidence for any significant archaeology. [Au]
