

South East

BUCKINGHAMSHIREChiltern

7/106 (H.11.M001)

SU 99889856

HP5 1TU

LATIMER PARK HOUSELatimer Park House, Buckinghamshire

Brooks, I Gwynedd : Engineering Archaeological Services Ltd., 2003, 15pp, figs

Work undertaken by: Engineering Archaeological Services Ltd.

Nine high resistance anomalies were detected within the survey area. Anomalies appeared to be the result of either modern services or pipes crossing the garden. [Au(adp)]

Archaeological periods represented: UD

Wycombe

7/107 (H.11.L001)

SP 80200370

HP27 9HJ

PRINCES RISBOROUGHPrinces Risborough, Buckinghamshire

Robertson, F Bradford : GSB Prospection, 2003, 39pp, figs, refs

Work undertaken by: GSB Prospection

Detailed survey confirmed the findings of the previous scan and revealed few anomalies of archaeological interest. Perhaps the most convincing were two-short ditch-type anomalies, which combined with several pit-type responses and trends, may have formed part of an enclosure, but could equally indicate a former boundary or drainage system. [Au(abr)]

Archaeological periods represented: UD