Work undertaken by: Gifford and Partners

The assessment identified the site as having no previous archaeological work carried out on it. The site lies within the bounds of the medieval and post-medieval towns but the potential for archaeology is low due to the amount of the development previously taken place on the site. Work undertaken by: University of Manchester Archaeological Unit

An archaeological assessment was carried out on the proposed development site. The site itself does not include the SAM of Bewsey Old Hall but does incorporate part of its moat. Also included in the development area is the Hall's farm and Lodge, both of post-medieval date. The site has been part of a deer park since the medieval period. GOLDEN SQUAREGolden Square, Warrington

Heawood, R Lancaster : Oxford Archaeology North, 2002, 46pp, figs, tabs, refs

Work undertaken by: Oxford Archaeology North

The archaeological assessment of the proposed development site, identified that much of the site has been truncated to a depth of 5m by recent developments. The north of the site though was identified as having post-medieval and medieval potential. The area lies within and close to the edge of the medieval town and the area included two sugar houses, a foundry and wire works, during the post-medieval period.
