Gloucestershire Morris Dancing

The Gloucestershire Morris Dancing Society was founded in 1920 to offer public school style dancing in Gloucestershire. The dance, originally from the Cotswold area, is a form of folk dancing that involves a group of dancers moving in a coordinated manner to the beat of a traditional English tune. It is characterized by the use of handbells, fans, and sticks.

The dance originated in the Cotswold area and later spread to other parts of England. It is performed in various styles, including the Cotswold style, the Border Morris style, and the Forest of Dean style.

The Morris Dancing Society is an international organization that promotes the art of Morris dancing through workshops, competitions, and performances. It has chapters in various locations in Gloucestershire and beyond, and is committed to preserving and sharing this valuable cultural tradition.

In conclusion, the Gloucestershire Morris Dancing Society is a vibrant and dynamic organization that continues to celebrate and promote this rich folk tradition. Whether you are a seasoned dancer or simply a curious observer, there is something for everyone to enjoy and appreciate at a Morris Dancing performance.
