

Making sense of interactions between mental health and criminal justice services: the utility of cultural historical activity systems theory

Sarah Hean^{a,b}

^aUniversity of Stavanger, 4036, Stavanger, Norway

^bBournemouth University, BH1 3LT, Bournemouth, UK

Corresponding author

sarah.c.hean@uis.no

+47 95493313

Elisabeth Willumsen

^aUniversity of Stavanger, 4036, Stavanger, Norway

^cUniversity College Molde, PO.Box 2110, 6402 Molde, Norway.

elisabeth.willumsen@uis.no

Atle Ødegård

^aUniversity of Stavanger, 4036, Stavanger, Norway

^cMolde University College, PO.Box 2110, 6402 Molde, Norway.

Atle.Odegard@hiMolde.no

Acknowledgements

We acknowledge the extensive contribution of professionals in the Norwegian correctional and specialised mental health services to this study.

Declaration of interest

The authors report no conflicts of interest. The authors alone are responsible for the content and writing of this article.

Funding

This study is funded by the EU Commissions FP7 Marie Curie Intra European Fellowship funding scheme (FP7-PEOPLE-2013-IEF 628010)(2014-2016)

