Cowie, R London : Museum of London Archaeology Service, 2002, 33pp, figs, tabs, refs

Work undertaken by: Museum of London Archaeology Service

A total of twelve trenches were excavated in order to provide a five percent sample of the development area. A number of 19th-/early 20th century features associated with the Rookery were found including two brick walls, seven pits, a possible gravel path, a small brick garden feature, two land drains and a number of trenches. Seven undated features cutting the gravel were identified. Evidence for ancient activity on the site was most likely to survive in the northern half of the site, which had suffered the least modern disturbance. [Au(abr)] SMR primary record number: 32/221
