11 & 12 CHAPTER MEWS, WINDSOR

11 & 12 Chapter Mews, Windsor. Archaeological Evaluation

Evans, P Llanidloes : Cambrian Archaeological Projects Ltd, 2002, 31pp, colour pls, figs, tabs, refs
Work undertaken by: Cambrian Archaeological Projects Ltd

The investigation revealed that the northern two thirds of the site had been heavily disturbed by the construction of the previous buildings, as well as the laying of domestic services. The southern end of the ditch had a linear feature cutting into the natural chalk bedrock. No dating evidence was forthcoming. [Au(abr)]

ADAM AND EVE PUBLIC HOUSE, 29 THAMES STREET, WINDSOR

Adam and Eve Public House, 29 Thames Street, Windsor, Berkshire. An Archaeological Evaluation

Pine, J Reading : Thames Valley Archaeological Services, 2002, 15pp, colour pls, figs, tabs, refs
Work undertaken by: Thames Valley Archaeological Services

The site was thought to be in an area of high archaeological potential, necessitating this evaluation. The works revealed medieval deposits, including floor layers and pits. These were close to the modern occupation level, and continued for some distance below. Pottery suggested continuous occupation from the 14th century. [Au(abr)]
