FOXRUSH FARM

Foxrush Farm Excavations 2002

Teeside Archaeological Society Middlesbrough : Teeside Archaeological Society, 2003, 4pp, pls, figs

Work undertaken by: Teeside Archaeological Society

Two trenches were opened to the north side of the farm buildings. The trench missed the ditch but did reveal a series of features to the north, which required investigation. These proved to be a series of parallel ditches or gullies. A total of 6 ditches, all closely parallel with each other, ran in a south-west to north-east direction, clearly defining an important and long-standing boundary. [Au(adp)]
