Boothroyd, N Stoke-on-Trent : Potteries Museum Field Archaeology Unit, 2002, 20pp, colour pls, figs, tabs, refs

Work undertaken by: Friends of Berryhill Fields, Potteries Museum Field

An excavation was carried out on part of the hall of the manor house identified in earlier excavations. Half the hall was uncovered to see if it was aisled and to locate its hearth, neither was identified. A gully was identified possibly caused by eaves drip. A small knife and medieval pottery was recovered. [Au(abr)]
